

Preparing for the Synthesis Essay
Read the sources carefully for the synthesis essay

001 Understand what you need to do
The synthesis essay requires the inclusion of three sources and a position that includes the point of view of one of the three sources but not necessarily the other two.

002 Read the three sources carefully
Read all three sources in their entirety.
To read more carefully, consider paraphrasing the original passage with your own words. Write a summary of the passage in your own words. Write a note of the source's relevance to the task.

003 Establish your position
Choose a position. Read each text as well as the task. To find possible sources of evidence to support your position, look for the same or different points of view. Think of what kind of evidence you need. Make sure to support your ideas clearly and logically.

004 Conclude
The task asks you to support the position. Research the value of your position and how to make it your own. Support your position in light of the task. Be sure to support yourself through your research and provide clear and logical reasoning.
